New Comers Plan to Build Homes in Las Cruces in the Spring.

The office of The Herald for Las Cruces is in the Robinson Drug Store, "The Quality Store." This firm will deliver The Herald each night at the regular rate of 50 cents a month.

Las Cruces, N. M., Feb. 22.—In honor of Washington's birthday, banks, county offices and the local land office are closed for the day. Exercises are being held for the occasion, and it is being observed as a general holiday. The following business was transacted at the local land office today: Homestead entries: George D. Conn, Deming, N. M., northeast quarter section 28, township 25 south, range 9 west. Rejected application; notified by registered mail, land covered by H. E. 96750. H. E. Andrew, J. Tidmore, Deming, N. M., northeast quarter section 28, township 25 south, range 9 west. Desert land entries: Capitola D. Kelly, Deming, N. M., south half section 21, township 23 south, range 9 west. Subject to right of way of S. P. R. R. H. Kelly, Deming, N. M., southeast quarter section 20, township 23 south, range 9 west. Subject to right of way of S. P. R. R.

E. H. Ziron, of El Paso, spent the day in Las Cruces.

The supper given by the Catholic women last night was a decided success financially. The store building was prettily decorated in flags, flowers and lighted with candles, which was very effective.

John Lerner, who has been one of the clerks in the postoffice for some years, has handed in his resignation to take effect the first of the month.

Mrs. J. B. Wolff, of Boulder, Colo., is visiting her mother, Mrs. Orrin Foster, at her home on Alameda. Mrs. Wolff expects to remain for some weeks.

J. O. Rogers, of Columbus, N. M., arrived in the city this morning on business before the U. S. land office.

It is reported that the manager of the Star, Stables, is not expected to live, owing to a bad case of blood poisoning, due to a cut in the hand received some time since.

Fay Sperry has returned from a business trip to El Paso.

T. R. Campbell, of the First National bank, has made a purchase of two lots from E. C. Wade, Jr., on the Alameda road. He intends to build there a spring white brick bungalow, containing five rooms and strictly modern, in keeping with the residences already built on the street.

Miss Mary Carson and Mrs. Martin Lohman and son, are expected home from a long visit in El Paso. Mrs. Martin Lohman has been very ill at Hotel Dietz.

The new telephone directories for Las Cruces have been delivered to all subscribers on the line in Las Cruces and vicinity. It is noted on the outside of the directory that hereafter subscribers are requested to call for party wanted by number, instead of name, which has largely been the custom in the past.

Prof. W. H. Sloan is another of the newcomers testifying to their belief in Mogollon relative to the murder of Freeman and Clark and the robbery of the store of the Mogollon Mercantile company; the phone line from here still being down.

The driver of the Mogollon auto came in last night and he said no trace of the robbers had been found. Both were Mexicans, one of whom had been about the mining camp some time and he is well known and was recognized as one of the robbers. The man says the camp was quiet when he left and the sheriff of Socorro county was still in Mogollon.

ARMY BUYS HORSES

War Department Finds Supply of Suitable Animals Is Very Short.

AUTOMOBILES ARE HELD RESPONSIBLE

By Frederic J. Haskin.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—There is a great deal of uneasiness in army circles over the problem of an adequate supply of army horses in the United States. The officials of the war department declare that cavalry and light artillery mounted on ordinary draft horses would be next to useless, yet they cannot see where a sufficient supply of lighter horses may be secured in case of war. Two principal causes have contributed to the big and growing shortage of horses suitable for army purposes. The first of these is the remarkable success that has attended the efforts of the department of agriculture to get the farmers of the country to raise draft horses; the other is the automobile.

At the end of the civil war there were almost no heavy draft horses in the United States. Then followed an era of education for the farmer, in which it was pointed out that he would find it to his interest to raise draft stock rather than lighter animals. The process of education was slow, but it has been so sure that now the farmers of the country are breeding draft horses almost exclusively. They find such animals better suited for farm work, and in the meantime they found a much more attractive market for surplus horses of this kind than for those of lighter weight.

Automobile Shortage. The other principal cause for the growing shortage in the number of lighter horses is the automobile. People who used to buy horses a decade ago use the automobile now. Men who always had saddle horses a decade ago are satisfied with a touring car now. The result is that the city demand for lighter horses for carriage and saddle purposes has fallen off, while the demand for draft horses has risen. The growing use of the automobile truck, has continued to increase. The expansion of American industry has been going forward even more rapidly than the breeding of draft horses and the building of auto trucks.

Racing Horses Scarce. There is another element in the horse situation that occasions alarm to the army officer who would see an adequate supply of military horses to meet the demands of a big war. That is the exportation of nearly all of the country's racing stock. The prohibition of race track gambling is admitted by most people to be right and proper, but it has resulted in dozens of the best draft horses in the country being shipped to England and elsewhere, giving those countries just that much advantage over us in the question of a future supply of draft horses.

The department of agriculture and the war department have joined hands in trying to get the horse breeders of the country to breed enough lighter horses to meet the prospective, as well as the immediate, demands of the United States army. It is pointed out that the outbreak of hostilities in this country would require 50,000 light horses at once. It is likewise pointed out that the number of horses needed annually in the case of war would be very large. During a single year of the civil war the federal government bought nearly 200,000 horses, and the capture of more than 20,000 was reported. This required a daily supply of some 400 horses.

During eight months the cavalry of the army of the Potomac was twice remounted, nearly 40,000 horses being required. Under General Phil Sheridan the cavalry of the army of the Shenandoah had to be remounted every four months. It was estimated that the cavalry of the army of the Shenandoah required 50,000 horses for officers, cavalry and field artillery at one time. It would take 15,000 a year to keep the supply up to that standard.

is Serious Problem. The army officials admit that they do not know where to get the supply would come from. They point to the fact that Great Britain bought more than 100,000 horses during the war for service in the Boer war, and that even this demand went a long way toward causing the shortage of horses in the United States. Prior to the Boer war, England was content to rely on its colonies for horses, but the lessons of that war were such that the British have followed the lead of continental Europe and are now spending $100,000 a year in encouraging the breeding of army horses at home.

The plan which the department of agriculture and the war department have worked out to lend effective encouragement to the breeding of army horses involves a government stud of a hundred horses, about 20 of them thoroughbreds, 25 standard bred, 15 saddle horses and 10 morganas. These horses would be distributed through four districts, especially suited for breeding army horses, and the colts from these horses would be subject to an option of the government at 2 years of age. It is estimated that the maintenance of this stud would cost $250,000 for the first year and $100,000 a year thereafter.

CASH REGISTER MEGINDICTED

Thirty, Including the President, Are Charged With Anti-trust Violations.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Feb. 22.—Thirty officials and employees of the National Cash Register company of Dayton, Ohio, today were indicted on charges of criminal violation of the Sherman anti-trust law by a special federal grand jury.

The Adams Express company was indicted on 11 counts, charged with having attempted to collect more than established rates.

Seven Cincinnati manufacturing firms also were indicted charged with attempting to secure transportation at lower rates than those established by the interstate commerce commission.

The first count charges that nearly all competitors have been bought out or driven out of business.

It is charged that restraint has been in operation for the last 30 years, although the specific charge is confined to the last three years.

It is said to have been effected by bribing employees of competitors and transportation, telegraph and telephone companies, and injuring the credit of competitors in libeling their machines.

The second and third counts charge the defendants with monopolizing the cash register business by the same means.

Specifically it was charged that the competitors of the register company were driven out of business by interference with their employees, by libeling their machines, cutting prices, selling imitations of competitive machines made to use as "knockers" and injuring competitive machines in every possible way.

It also was charged that the company's selling plan included the threatening of suits merely to harass manufacturers and purchasers and in organizing bogus corporations pretending to be competitors as well as making applications for patents on the machines and improvements invented by competitors.

All but seven of the defendants were among those named December 4 in the civil suit started by the government to restrain them from attempting to monopolize the cash register business.

A. A. Oswald, W. Davies, George C. Shaw, K. H. Rusting, and H. G. Carnell, members of the board of directors when the civil action was filed, and made defendants to it, were not named in the indictment.

First Series of Indictments. Washington, D. C., Feb. 22.—The indictment of the Adams Express company is the first of what probably will be made a series of indictments against express companies for exacting more than the published rates, though no general campaign has been instituted by the interstate commerce commission. 3000 instances of overcharge in a single day.

The alleged violation of the law was the exaction of excessive unlawful rates on shipments from Indianapolis, Ind., to Franklin, Pa. The rate between the two cities is $1.15 a hundred

POLICE MYSTIFIED BY WOMAN'S DEATH

Sister Says It Was Suicide, but Police Investigate Affair.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 22.—Detectives investigating the death of Mrs. Elsie Zail Robe, sister-in-law of assemblyman Nathan C. Coglian, who was shot and killed at the Coglian home last night, made little progress today. Mrs. Coglian, who was present when the shot was fired, declared her sister was killed accidentally while examining the weapon, but absence of powder burns and the extent of the incision and fracture of the skull, caused the police to start an investigation. Detective James McGowan reported that the woman's head had been battered as with a blunt instrument.

Coglian was not present when the shot was fired. He stated to the police today that he had left the revolver with which his sister was killed on a mantel piece a few minutes prior to the firing of the shot. Mrs. Robe had been a guest at a dinner attended by her two sisters and her brother-in-law just before the shooting.

PIMPLES SO DISFIGURING HE SHUNNED FRIENDS

Face Completely Covered. Blackheads, Too. Lasted Four Years. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and Face Is Now Smooth.

R. F. D. 2, Portsmouth, N. H. — "I was bothered with pimples and blackheads in the worst way for over four years. My face and arms were completely covered with them. The pimples would come out on my face and neck all up. They would swell and make my face sore, besides being so disgusting that I shunned my friends. I tried facial cream, balms and benzoin with no effect.

"One night I asked a friend what was good for pimples, and he advised me to try Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment which I did. I would wash my face first with hot water and Cuticura Soap, and then put on some Cuticura Ointment, let it stay on five minutes, and then wash my face again with the Cuticura Soap. It would draw the blackheads out as nice, and the pimples, oh, say, it was one grand relief to go among my friends and be jolly again.

After using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and wash my face with the Cuticura Soap, my face is as smooth as if there never had been a pimple on it. I cannot speak too highly of the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and I hope others troubled by them as much as I have. I know they will after giving them just one trial."

(Signed) Arthur E. Carwell, May 6, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free with 25c. book on skin and scalp treatment. Address, "Cuticura," Dept. 7, Boston. Tender-faced men should shave with Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick.
